Don't assume that people are not thinking about deep things.

- Everyone is thinking about deep things ALL THE TIME. They just don't have anyone to share those thoughts with.
- The digital age is not a barrier but an opportunity.

Don't assume that people know and understand the way to Jesus.

- People don't know what Jesus really wants from them or what He has to offer.
- We need to make it simple and accessible.
- We can do so by asking simple questions.

Don't assume that people know you will show them the way to Jesus.

- MOST people think you are too busy for them. They truly don't think you would stop and show them, in the Bible, the way for them to know Jesus.
- You have to demonstrate consistently that you are willing to step away from your schedule and slowly walk with them.
- Look for opportunities to show yourself with other people in public and be available. Demonstrate the values you want to see.
- Get granular.

Don't assume that you control any of this. God takes us to these opportunities.

- Is He not taking you? YOU are God's plan.
- Be you and be available.
- Steward your influence.
- We must find a place for biblical fellowship to happen online. We cannot just put on a show.

Big Idea:

Taking what we were already doing and simply putting it online is the biggest mistake we could make. We have to resort to a completely new toolbox that is distinctly crafted for a digital audience. And that's especially true when it comes to discipleship.
